These young beauties are a great asset to the Andover post office this summer as they fill in for vacationing personnel both on route duty and at the Main Street office. The Last Call Still Comes At Midnight

Hours for the serving of alcoholic beverages at local clubs and restaurants will remain the same, despite an appeal from a group of motel and country club owners.

Selectmen Philip K. Allen and Roger W. Collins approved of the extension of time for serving beverages until 1 a.m. on week-days and beginning service on Sunday at 12 noon instead of the current 1 p.m. opening.

Opposed to the move and favoring retention of the current law which provides for midnight closing, were Selectmen William Stewart, Sidney P. White and Chairman Robert A. Watters.

Harry Axelrod, owner of the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn, acted as spokesman for the group and told why the extension had been requested.

He said that his facility along with the other hotels, motels and country clubs, catered to a number of banquets and functions many requesting that the festivities continue until 1 a.m. as is the case in surrounding communities.

Axelrod noted that in some cases local residents returning from theater events or other activities in Boston, like to stop in to local establishments before returning home and with the present hours such activity is prohibitive.

He also explained that in most cases the restaurants open at noon on Sunday, and in most cases, visitors like to have a cocktail before dinner. Under present laws this can not be done until 1 p.m.

Gerry O'Donoghue, owner of the Andover Inn, told the board that the extension was primarily for guests of the hotel and motel. He said that he had several groups staying at his hotel and that conferences were held until late in the evening.

O'Donoghue said that the extension would facilitate the serving of the guests.

Selectman Roger W. Collins said he was in favor of such a move and noted that several months ago, he had urged the board to grant the extension.

October Warrant Facts

Dates for the opening and closing of the warrant for the annual special town meeting in October were set by the selectmen Monday night.

The warrant will open at 12 noon Aug. 11 and remain open for three weeks, closing at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 5 at 4:30 p.m.

Selectman William Stewart was opposed to the length of time involved in keeping the warrant open.

Town Clerk Irving O. Piper advised the selectmen that the closing date would permit his office to go over the articles, present them to counsel and prepare the warrant for advertising within the legal time period.

Although the town bylaws provide for a second town meeting to be held on the first Monday in October, state law provides for only a single annual town meeting a year, thus the October session must be designated as a special town meeting as such, 100 signatures are required to insert an article in the warrant.

No Pipe And Slippers In Retirement

A career in education spanning 41 years, 31 of them as superintendent of schools, draws to a close this week for Supt. of Schools Edward I. Erickson.

Mr. Erickson, who has spent almost 20 of those years as superintendent in the Andover school system, looks forward to his retirement years, but is not planning to relegate himself to the pipe and slippers set.

His immediate plans call for a month's vacation, some of which will be spent in resort, or vacation areas.

Following this, the man who has directed the Andover school system through a startling growth period since 1953, is planning to spend the fall months just relaxing and "unwinding," after the several years of increasing responsibility and changes in educational processes.

His intentions, however, are to remain active in the educational field, planning to participate in the Harvard Roundtable program, a meeting of area superintendents and educators who meet to discuss advances in modern education.

Edward I. Erickson

He will also continue membership in the October Conference of New England School Superintendents and participate in meetings of the New England Association

Selectmen Awaiting Candidate's Decision

Choice of Andover's third town manager has narrowed down to one prime candidate who is considering an offer made by the selectmen Tuesday to accept the town's top administrative post.

Chairman Robert A. Watters said Wednesday that he had not as yet heard from the candidate, following a full meeting with the board on Tuesday afternoon.

The community, in which he is currently serving as executive secretary, is as yet officially unaware of his candidacy here, and any decision on his part is awaiting giving notice to the selectmen there. The chairman of the board is currently on vacation.

Chairman Watters was of the opinion that a final decision, either by the board, or by the candidate may not come now until next week, but this was still a matter of conjecture late Wednesday.

The selectmen have been reviewing the candidates for the post created when former Town Manager Richard J. Bowen, stepped down in April to accept a city manager post in Portsmouth, N. H.

The prime candidate, has served as town manager in Williamstown for seven years and prior to that had experience in Holton, Maine. He left his post in Williamstown to continue his education and, receiving a master's degree before accepting the executive secretary position in a community a short distance south of Boston.

Watters said that the candidate had excellent qualifications and that the board was most interested in obtaining him for the local administrative position.

Before leaving Andover, the applicant said he had some other matters to discuss on a personal basis about coming here, but that his decision would be made known to the local board as soon as possible.

Further negotiations may be necessary before a formal vote and appointment is made, Watters said.

If he accepts he will become Andover's third manager since adoption of the system by the electorate in 1953.

A. G. Bell Didn't Think Of Humidity

Excessive humidity, which wilted nearly everybody the past few days, also did a job on telephone service locally over the weekend.

Sunday and Monday, calls being processed through the central office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., on Elm street, were getting through to some people and not to others.

Charles A. Pappalia, manager of the local office, reported that the mechanical malfunction of the equipment at the office, was due to the humidity, a condition which is uncontrollable at certain times.

Experts from throughout the state were brought in to correct the problems in the lines and machinery in the Elm street building and by late Monday, service was back to normal.

The problem began on Sunday and continued through Monday morning.

Deyermond Funeral Saturday

There will be calling hours at the Lundgren Funeral Home, 18 Elm St., Thursday and Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The military funeral will be directed by the U. S. Army. The soldier's body arrived in Andover Wednesday.

Garden Salads

Now In Season

The appearance of outdoor cucumbers and tomatoes at reasonable prices signals the arrival of the salad season, for Bay staters who dote on fresh, flavorful, native produce. Trellis grown tomatoes, both standard and cherry size, and cucumbers headline this list of native "best buys", according to the Mass. Department of Agriculture. A huge variety of salad greens, economically priced, makes the salad picture perfect this week. Boston, iceberg, Romaine and Salad Bowl lettuce are all plentiful as are chicory, escarole, radishes, parsley, scallions, watercress, and dandelion greens. Coleslaw and boiled dinners are a "must" with the abundance of cabbage - red, Savoy and Chinese - as well as bunched carrots. Other money saving native vegetables include beets, beet greens, broccoli rabe, collard greens, Swiss Chard, kale, dandelion greens, leeks, zucchini and yellow squash. Next week will see native sweet corn at its peak, along with green beans. Fava and wax beans are also in good supply, priced reasonably. Native eggs continue to be an excellent buy, with extra large and medium sizes featured this week.

Continued Train Service Is Sought

Extension of train service to and from Boston on a once-a-day basis for five months has been recommended by the selectmen.

The board was notified by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority Monday that the morning and evening Boston run on the Boston and Maine line would be terminated July 31, unless some action was taken.

Chairman Robert A. Watters said it was his understanding that the legislature was going to provide for extension of service and that the town had sufficient funds in its account for continued MBTA train service through the end of this year.

Underground Highway

At International Nickel's 68-year old Creighton mine in the Sudbury District of Ontario, a 16-foot wide, concrete-surfaced ramp spirals down a 20-degree incline to a vertical depth of nearly 2,000 feet. To be further extended, this ramp provides an economical method of recovering low-grade nickel ores that would be valueless if more conventional mining techniques had to be used.

Gerald Post Tennis Club Champion

In the Andover Tennis Club men's senior singles competition finals last week Gerald Post defeated Dr. Douglas Dunbar 6-2, 6-0 on the courts at Phillips Academy.

The upcoming events are the mixed doubles Friday and the men's doubles Saturday. Both events will begin at 5:30 p.m.

A tennis clinic will be held this evening on the courts at the West Junior High School or, in the event of rain, in the Junior High gymnasium.

Tips will be given for beginners, advanced and team players.

Conducting the Clinic will be Stan Gibson, Chairman of the New England Public Parks Junior Tennis Association. This organization operates under the auspices of the New England Lawn Tennis Association and the Youth Tennis Association of New England. The stated purpose is, "to encourage more adults in the communities in New England to help more boys and girls learn and play better tennis."

Mr. Gibson has been teaching tennis for over thirty years. For the past twelve years he has conducted clinics throughout the New England States. He points out that the clinics are free, but contributions to the Junior Tennis Association may be made, at the Clinic, by those wishing to encourage the program.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

By W. A. Leavell, Ph. D.

How do you want your "Leisure Dividend" paid? Would you prefer fewer working hours each week, longer paid vacations or would you just like to retire earlier? If I had a choice, I think I would take all of those.

Economist Juanita M. Kreps of Duke University is doing a research report for the Social Security Administration and the good lady feels we all have a bonus of time coming in the near future.

By 1985, the good lady reports, we will be producing about 80 percent more goods and services per person. She further says that we can take this vastly greater output in the form of higher incomes, if that is what we want. If it is not the cold cash we want, we can keep out per person income the same and pay ourselves a "Leisure Dividend."

Professor Kreps predicts that "The workweek could fall to 22 hours, or the workyear could be limited to 27 weeks a year, or retirement age could be lowered to age 38."

How does that sound to you, or in the modern slang language, "How does that grab you leisure lovers?"

The professor points out that in the past, Americans have taken two-thirds of their economic gains in the form of cash and the rest in leisure.

To find out what the rest of the world thinks of this problem of what to do with all that extra productivity bonus, the professor went abroad to see how Western Europe handled it. She reports that up until now, they have chosen more holidays and longer vacations rather than working fewer hours each week, or higher incomes.

Well, I don't know about you but this blessing that is about to descend on us doesn't make me exactly jump up and down with joy. It all sounds good but that is what bothers me. My experience tells me that when good old big brother holds out great hope for my future, it just means that he wants to get his big old hand in my pocket a little deeper.

Now don't get me all wrong. I am not one of those people who just go around knocking the government. No sir. Not me. I admit that I can't think of anything good to say about big brother but I don't knock it. I have a completely open mind on big brother and for that matter all of our glorious leaders. If I ever think, hear or even imagine anything good about them, I will be the first to report it to you.

I doubt if the good lady will come to the same conclusions. I do but you must remember that her study is for the government. Big brother just doesn't look at things like us normal people.

Take that information about how the American workers have so far elected to take their production bonus in two-thirds cold cash and only one-third in extra leisure time. That should tell everyone something. It means that with the way big brother runs things, it takes two thirds of our production bonus to pay for the one third more leisure time. Americans might not be smart enough to keep big brother in line but they can figure how much it costs to have time off.

As for the prediction of a 22-hour work week, I can't see it being any big advantage. It is one thing to sneak a few extra hours off now and then but all that extra time could be a big problem. I don't think the wives will stand for it. If they have to put up with a husband around the house and under foot all that extra time I think they will take to the streets and demonstrate for longer work hours (for husbands of course).

I can speak from considerable experience on the problem of leisure time. Not that I have all that time on my hands, but you see, I have these relatives (since they are mostly on my wife's side I call them my "Outlaws") who are experts on leisure. They have been on a short work week for many years. In fact, if they ever get a prediction of a "no work" schedule I expect the government to call them in as experts.

I suggest a graduated working hour system. It would be something like the graduated income tax we now have. The young, lower income people work just a few hours a week. This lets them enjoy youth and freedom. As they get older and make more money, let them work longer and harder. This would keep them from home more and this would make them happy.

Come to think about it, that is about what we know have. How about that!

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS

Make one extra preparation when getting ready to leave for your summer retreat. Be sure to have good secure locks on your doors to prevent a home burglary while you are away. The small price of a good lock just may save some of your most prized possessions.

Natural Sciences Hold Key To Better Learning

By Polly Bradley

Environmental education is becoming the great unifying factor that is pulling together the loose threads of traditional split-up education.

Gradually people are realizing that to accomplish anything in science, you have to write up the results of your experiments so people will understand them ... to appreciate literature you must know about people and human psychology ... to get anything done in the social sciences, you have to have the facts from natural science. Life is made up of complexities, and school should teach children how to make sense out of the interrelated parts of the total picture. What good are the parts of the jigsaw puzzle if no one fits them together to make sense?

Ecology is the science of inter-related life, and conservation is the social art of making the world make ecological sense on a human level. So conservation education is becoming a link between the compartmentalized traditional disciplines. Kids are learning in school what problems affect the environment and how to solve these problems ... and the concern which cares enough about the environment to want to make it better.

Of course you don't start in at this level in kindergarten. You begin with teaching an appreciation of nature and an ability to observe nature. And you teach how people and nature are interrelated. You teach how people depend on nature for water, air, food and health. As the child grows, you gradually expand his horizons so that from thinking about flowers in the school ground he is thinking about town and regional and national and world environmental programs. And you teach the city child about nature, and you teach the rural child about the city. You teach the interrelation between city and suburb and farmland and wild land. Then the children are prepared for the complexities which will form their high school environmental education.

The expanded conservation education programs of the Massachusetts Audubon Society are making a big step in the direction of bringing this sort of creative environmental awareness to all the children of Massachusetts. The Massachusetts Audubon conservation program is aimed not just at teaching the children about the birds (though that is one aspect of the total problem), but most of all at making the children aware of their surroundings, both natural and man-made.

Part of the Massachusetts Audubon Society's long-range plan is to emphasize bringing conservation education to city children, who will be the majority of voters of the future. Children in the country may grow up with a certain natural awareness of the importance of nature, but you have to teach it to city children. Why, some city kids seem to grow up thinking they don't breathe air or drink water ... or at least they don't get the connection between keeping our natural resources in healthy condition and keeping our people in healthy condition.

Well, the Massachusetts Audubon Society is going to help change that if it can with its urban teaching programs for the inner-city schools. And our state will be better because of it.

LAST CALL

Collins agreed with Axelrod that surrounding towns have extended the hours and that Andover's establishments should be granted similar privilege.

Selectman William Stewart said he did not care about surrounding towns, he was interested in Andover and he did not want local police being beat up at late night parties, as has happened in other communities.

Stewart favored a status quo attitude, permitting an extension on specific requests from the license holders. He also objected to the Sunday opening, feeling there should be some respect for the Sabbath.

Selectman Sidney P. White agreed with Stewart and noted that any worthy extension request was always honored by the board.

He also felt there should be respect for the Lord's Day.

Charles H. LaVallee, general manager of the Parker House Inn, said that the extension was primarily for guests, emphasizing the point that O'Donoghue had made earlier. He added that it was primarily for convenience to persons staying at the inns and motels and to accommodate tourists stopping off in Andover.

In reply, White said that the manager was entitled to his opinion but that he had respect for the Lord's Day and that he could not see opening an hour earlier on Sunday in order that a person could "stop in for a drink on the way home from church."

Selectman Allen moved that blanket extension be given to all restaurant, club, tavern and innholder licenses to 1 a.m. weekdays and granting a 12 noon opening on Sunday.

The motion would have included all pouring establishments.

It was seconded by Collins.

In the roll call vote, Chairman Watters was compelled to break a tie vote and cast a negative decision, nothing with it that his vote was in accordance with the way he has always acted on such matters.

TELEPHONES

No specific area of the town was solely effected, since the equipment handling incoming and outgoing calls hit by the humidity were in spotty areas.

The technical experts from the utility remained at the central office, until correction of the problem was insured and full service restored.

The company first learned of the difficulty when reports were given to the main office in Lawrence concerning failure to receive calls and also failure to obtain a dial tone from private telephone.

Raytheon Reaches New High

New Raytheon Company sales and earnings highs for the second quarter and for the year were anticipated by Thomas L. Phillips, president, at the annual meeting of stockholders.

In 1968, records were established in sales of $1.15 billion, net income from operations of $30.8 million, and earnings per share of $2.10. New highs were also established in all three categories in the first quarter of 1969.

"The outlook for 1969 as a whole is good," Mr. Phillips said. "We ran ahead of last year in the first quarter and will continue to do so in the second quarter. We expect some acceleration in the second half of the year in both government and commercial businesses and are confident we will establish new sales and earnings highs for the year."

He described the company as financially strong and well-balanced, a major and respected competitor in government technology and systems engineering, and solidly established in four commercial growth markets.

"We are actively working to enter a fifth commercial market," he said, "one new to the company but related to present endeavors so that we can multiply our opportunities for continuing growth."

Mr. Phillips described to stockholders a recently received contract to develop for the U.S. Air Force a tactical air traffic control system. "This is an important new business area for Raytheon," he said. "We believe that the characteristics of the system will have application to civilian air traffic control needs in the years ahead."

Commenting on the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system, for which Raytheon developed the Missile Site Radar, Mr. Phillips said, "As a sub-contractor, it is not our role to make a judgment as to whether or not the system is needed and should be deployed. That is the prerogative of the President, the National Security Council, and the Congress."

"But allegations about the system are made freely these days by many self-styled experts. One of the allegations is that the system will not work. The Safeguard System was designed by some of the nation's most creative, technically competent people. This is especially true of our MSR radar. It not only will work but does work now, in continuous tests at Kwajalein, beyond the highest expectations of the prime contractor and the government. I felt that you, as stockholders, would appreciate knowing this."

Appeals Board Hearings

Hearings are scheduled by the Board of Appeals tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Hall library.

George V. Leslie, 165 Hancock St., North Quincy, will ask a variance to allow reconstruction of a camp off South Main Street which was destroyed by fire.

Gwendolyn Sandberg, 193 Shaw-sheen Road will seek a special permit to allow operation of a lodging or boarding house in existing space at that address, or as office space for non-resident physician, lawyer or dentist.

Richard Baker, 123 Red Spring Road, will seek a permit to build additional apartments.

Michael A. Staszkiwicz, 508 Main St., seeks a variance to remove and rebuild a service station which is a non-conforming use.

Wesley Swanson, 7 Crestwood Drive, asks permission to transfer land which will leave an adjoining lot with less than the required amount of frontage.

Mobil Oil Corporation, 445 Chelsea St., East Boston, seeks to extend and modernize the existing building on 309 Lowell St.

Bands Will Use Topsfield Fair Grounds

The Topsfield Fair Grounds will be home for two days for more than 2,500 youngsters from various parts of the United States and Canada during the annual World Open Junior Drum and Bugle Corps Championships, Aug. 14 and 15 at Manning Bowl, Lynn. Because there was no single facility in Lynn large enough to accommodate approximately 25 units from such distant points as California and Toronto, tournament officials requested and received permission from the Essex Agricultural Society to use a half dozen exhibition buildings at the Fair Grounds to house and feed the visitors.

The 65-acre Topsfield site was termed ideal because it also provides spacious parking lots for the units to practice their marching and musical patterns.

The Manning Bowl spectacular has drawn an all-time record field of 81 units from 14 states and three Canadian cities. Twenty-eight corps will compete in the Class B division during the day and night of Thursday, August 14. The Class A competition on Friday, August 15, will have 53 contenders including a dozen all-girl groups vying for the distaff championship.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

It was announced today that the deadline for reservations for the theater party for Andover's senior citizens will be Monday, Aug. 4. Under the sponsorship of The Haven Associates, all those interested in attending a matinee performance of Oliver at the Cinema in Lawrence, Thursday, Aug. 7, are invited to make reservations at The Haven, 15 Barnard St. The two dollar fee, payable when reservations are made, will cover admission and bus transportation from the Haven to the theater and back. The bus will leave The Haven Aug. 7 at 1:15 p.m.

ERICKSON

Guidance Center and other local organizations.

For the past two years, Mr. Erickson has been invited to participate in a National Conference of School Superintendents in Florida. He plans attendance again this year, going to the Sunshine state in the winter months.

Speaking of the winter months, his retirement years will relieve him of one of the prime headaches of school administrators in this area, whether to hold classes on inclement weather days.

Seldom do people appreciate the hours that go into making the final decision on whether to hold classes or not. For the most part the day of a threatening storm starts at 5 a.m. with administrators looking out the window and listening to forecasts—many times revised, and often inaccurate—then finally making the decision.

This year the snow will fly and the decision will be left to someone else—Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert of Las Vegas, Nevada, who succeeds Mr. Erickson and is expected to assume his new duties in early August.

On his return from Florida, Mr. Erickson said he will probably work part time in personnel or consultant work, but not in a job which will be regular or one requiring the punching of a clock. There are many highlights of his career in Andover which actually began in 1942 when he served for three years during the war years as superintendent, then went to Longmeadow, followed by tenure in Methuen before returning to Andover in 1953.

Most noteworthy over the span of years, has been the growth of the school system. Mr. Erickson noted that in his first few years, he and the school committee struggled to keep the annual budget to under $300,000. The present annual public education bill approaches $5,000,000.

In his early years, the enrollment was around 1,300, today the public schools provide an education for over 5,700 youngsters. As a new school year opens there will be over 350 teachers in the system, with some still to be hired for the coming year.

In his earlier years, the superintendent had the complete summer off, and worked at a summer camp. The teacher turnover rate was low, and the five or six new teachers needed for a coming year were generally hired before the close of school.

There were three school buses in operation back in the early years, now there are 25 covering all areas of the town, supplemented by station wagons and private cars for special education units.

He has also seen a complete change in the educational format. A curriculum more flexible and offering more opportunities for the student, has evolved over the years. The addition of school libraries and introduction of audiovisual aids has also benefitted the school system.

The change in modern education vs. the old is evidenced in the town's newest school, the Bancroft, where the open concept, or progressive education system has been implemented and is the forerunner of what will be happening throughout Andover's entire school system.

His first assignment as a superintendent of schools was in Derry, N.H., where he had previously served as teacher and headmaster. In that position, he retained Neil Sullivan, currently head of the State Department of Education. In Derry, Mr. Sullivan was hired as a teacher-coach.

Also in the Granite community, Mr. Erickson became familiar with Alan Sheppard, America's first astronaut, who was a student at Pinkerton Academy. The Erickson's and Sheppard's parents have been friends for many years.

Beginning his administrative career in Derry, he moved from there to Andover.

Of his career here, Mr. Erickson says that he has thoroughly enjoyed it and hopes he has contributed something to the system over the years.

He noted the growth of the town from his early days, commenting on the open fields of years ago, now completely occupied by housing developments.

He expressed appreciation to the taxpayers and citizens of Andover, "who have supported and assisted the growth of the school system."

"We have made demands on the taxpayers to provide proper education for their youngsters. Whenever they have been asked, the taxpayers and residents of the community have responded, not only for the development of new educational programs, but for housing," Mr. Erickson said, the latter in reference to the increasing need for additional classroom space throughout the town.

While his school days may have come to an end, Mr. Erickson still has another day back at the old familiar places. He has an assignment on opening day of school, which most assuredly he will be happy to perform.

He has been assigned the responsibility of registering his three grandchildren at the Central school. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Darby, Edward will enter the fourth grade, Eric the third and Carlene Ellen, kindergarten.

It will be a pleasant trip back to school for the retired administrator.

NEW MANAGER

Thomas E. Duff was the first manager and served for five years at which time, the selectmen failed to renew his contract.

Bowen succeeded Duff and announced in March that he would not be a candidate for reappointment at the termination of his five year contract in August.

He then announced in April that he would take his vacation time due him and accept the position in Portsmouth.

As yet no definite salary has been established for the new candidate.

New Building? Everyone Into The Pool

July was hot and humid from time to time, and evidence of a quick path to relief is contained in the monthly report of the building inspector.

There were seven swimming pool permits issued by Building Inspector Arthur Peatman during July.

Largest single permit issued for the month was to the Sebago Andover Realty Trust, Dascomb Road, for construction of a pump house and storage tank at an estimated cost of $40,000. This is for the Brockway-Smith-Haigh-Lovell Co., building off Dascomb Road, near Route 93.

Total amount of estimated construction for which permits were issued in July was $153,500, bringing in receipts of $440 to the town treasury.

Permits for new homes were issued to Wynwood Associates, two for Bridle Path Road, $24,000, each and Joseph Brouillard, Pleasant Street, $22,000.

Swimming pool permits were issued as follows: George A. Smith, 16 Burton Farm Drive, $3,000; William Huggins, 46 Juniper Road, $3,000; Paul Charland, 45 Juliette Road, $1,800; Edward LaFleur, 233 River Road, $2,000; Daniel Yameen, 4 Pilgrim Drive, $3,000; Bernard Leed, 49 Juniper Road, $2,500 and Marshall Kates, 36 Bannister Road, $1,800.

Permits for additions and alterations were issued to: William Schlott, 3 Sunset Rock Road, screen porch, $1,000; Joseph Sweeney Sr., 19 Cuba St., relocate door, window, $150; J. Peter McCracken, 66 Poor St., alterations, $2,500; Alfred Moreau, 51 North St., alterations, $400; Karl C. Killorin, 36 Central St., close entryway, $400; Lionel Dufour, 5 Binney St., add bathroom, $500; Edward Annaian, 224 Chandler Road, add porch, $1,000; Macartney's, 5 Main St., alterations, $8,500; James Bennett, 15 Woodcliffe Road, add porch, $1,500; Joseph Iovine, 260 River Road, garage and breezeway, $3,000; Raymond J. Quinn, 10 North St., accessory structure, $150; Rudolph Perron, 64 North St., patio, $500; Sidney P. White, 5 Argilla Road, barn, $5,000.

To brighten basement stairs, carpet them with deck canvas, an extra-tough cotton fabric available at awning shops or marine supply houses. It comes in 31 to 33-inch widths. Glue canvas down with fabric cement. To give the natural-colored fabric a bright look as well as more durability, paint each step a different eye-catching color.

Miss Bonnie Esther Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin M. Walker, 44 York St., became the bride of Donald Joseph Harding, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Harding, 129 Haverhill St., at a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. William J. Donnelly at St. Augustine's Church, on May 24.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian gown of silk organza over taffeta adorned with Venice lace with Empire bodice and a fully detachable cathedral train also applied with Venice lace. A floral headpiece held her elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Barbara Ann Broderick was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Harding, and Miss Cynthia Parisseau of Manchester, N. H. They were identically dressed in full length navy blue linen gowns with a bodice trimmed with columns of embroidered flowers separated by white lace. For a headpiece they wore navy blue bows with white lace and carried baskets of yellow and white daisies.

John Harding Jr. served as best man and ushers were Bruce Walker, Timothy Harding, Peter Whitman and Thomas McQuade. Nephew of the bride, Scott Churchill, was ring bearer. Soloist was Michael Harding, brother of the bridegroom.

A wedding dinner immediately followed at the Merrimack Valley Motor Inn, North Andover. The couple left on a wedding trip to Virginia, Washington, D. C. and Annapolis.

The bride is a graduate of Andover High School and Bryant College in Providence, R. I. She is employed by the Andover Companies.

Miss Black Goes To Wyoming

Miss Beth Black, 7 Sweetbriar Lane, will be a member of the Senior Girl Scout patrol of eight girls who left for Wyoming on Wednesday. Seven other girls from Lowell and Chelmsford have been chosen to take part in a national All States Rendezvous to be held July 31-August 15.

The girls will go by plane, train, and chartered bus to Ten Sleep Wyoming where the National organization, Girl Scouts of the USA, has recently acquired 15,000 acres for a National Training Center West. Three main camps will be set up for girls from all over the United States and several foreign countries. During their stay the Seniors will explore the site, suggesting program possibilities; lay new trails for others to follow; enjoy horse back riding.

The local girls were trained for the event by the Council's Training Director, Mrs. Clayton Nash and their assistant leader, Mrs. Joanne Weinert of Lowell.

Most injuries in the home occur from falls and one of the most dangerous areas is the bathroom. One way to reduce this hazard is to keep a rubber mat in the bath tub.

PROMINENT ANDOVER SPOT. The new Gillette Toiletries Co. plant in Lowell Junction Industrial Park assumed a prominent place in Andover during the past week, as it was announced by the assessors that the new firm had the dubious distinction of being the town's top taxpayer, a jump from oblivion to the top in the assessment system within a year. The production lines began rolling recently at the new plant, which will produce and warehouse most of the firm's toiletries products for men and women.

Mascara smudging? Blusher all blotchy? Eyeshadow changing color? You've got runny make-up, that's your problem. And you've got the problem because your skin is excessively oily, or because your face perspires when it's hot. Don't use oily-bases make-up or cream-type shine-makers whatever you do. Use brush-on-powder and shadow for your eyes. And, of course, no matter what you use to beautify, apply everything from lipstick to eye make-up with meticulous care and with the cleanest of tools.

Looking And Feeling Sharp Here

Production at the new Gillette Toiletries Company plant in the Lowell Junction Industrial Park is reaching maximum efficiency after little more than a month's operation.

Company officials report that many of the bugs which turned up at the start of production on the Foamy line, have been eliminated and the maximum target of 240 cans a minute is drawing nearer.

In the second issue of the company's house organ "Spray," many pictures are used to show various stages of the production line. Also included in the pages of "Spray" are pictures taken last June 13 when a preview of the operation was given to members of the press and area municipal officials who were guests for the day.

Special VIP treatment was given to Chairman Robert A. Watters of the Andover selectmen who is shown being driven around the vast new plant in a golf-style cart.

Gillette editors also found space; to pay tribute to the Western Electric Company in North Andover which is lauded as "neighbor to be proud of."

Announcement was made that the Gillette Company is becoming involved with six other Greater Lawrence area firms in establishing Housing, Inc., a non-profit corporation.

Housing, Inc., plans to arrange financing and build about 70 housing units for low-income families as a tangible solution to a most serious ghetto problem.

The 70 units now planned by Housing, Inc., will be a pilot project, but the hope is its success will lead to the expansion of the scheme on a larger scale.

Street Signs, Lights, Traffic To Be Discussed By Board

Street lights, street signs and traffic control problems will be among the topics to be discussed at a special meeting of the selectmen Monday night.

The board will meet with task force committees which have been studying these problems for the past several months.

Selectman Sidney P. White brought up the matter of signs and lights and asked about the distribution of new signs in the community.

Chairman Robert A. Watters said that he had checked into the matter and that several signs had been placed on streets throughout the town, but that the budget for such work is now nearly expended.

Ralph Sharpe, who has charge of the project, has been assisted by summer employees, who have placed several new luminous street signs in various areas.

As for street lights, White felt that many of the new lights in the Lowell Junction area leading to the industrial park could be better utilized in other areas of town.

White felt that there was an overabundance of illumination there.

Selectman Roger W. Collins, said that the placement of the lights was according to a survey and recommendations made by the Mass. Electric Co., which supplied reasoning for the implementation of the illumination.

Collins added that possibly the reports could be turned over to the street lighting committee for their consideration.

With regard to traffic control problems, White and other board members felt that a review of some of the recommendations made in January, but never carried out could be gone over again and brought up to date.

This the board intends to do with the two groups on Monday night.

Also scheduled to meet with the board Monday night is Roger Johnson, clerk of the works at the East Junior High school, where extensive renovations have been taking place this summer as part of a two year program to keep the school going as a prime educational unit.

The program began a year ago during the summer vacation and was continued again this year at the close of school in June.

Selectman Collins felt that an excellent job was being done at the school, and that possibly, Johnson would like to meet with the board to discuss progress to date and also any problems which may have arisen, or are anticipated.

The town provided funds two years ago at the annual town meeting to provide for the renovations after the senior high school opened and the former high school building was converted to provide for two junior highs, thus accommodating the increased junior high population.

The Yankee Division was given the job of guarding the entire Atlantic Coast, with the exception of an area around Washington, D.C. at the outbreak of WWII.

The pharmacist using this word daily in his shop may, at first thought, see little connection with the term's early meaning. "Shampoo" is derived from the ancient Hindustani word tshampna, which was used to denote the rubdowns that people received in their hot oriental baths.

Gradually, the word attained a more specific connotation, and is now used exclusively to refer to the "rubbing" that people use in washing their hair.

Editorial Comment

Sen. Kennedy

Last week, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy went before the people of Massachusetts and made an impassioned plea for judgment as to whether he should continue to serve the Commonwealth as its senior senator.

He did so following his entering a plea of guilty to leaving the scene of an accident in which a young lady lost her life, and he almost drowned himself.

To date, the mail has favored Sen. Kennedy retaining his senate seat.

Had it been anyone but Sen. Kennedy, the accompanying publicity probably would not have been so great.

The senator, in his address, confessed his guilt and further admitted that there was no sound reason for delaying his report to police about the accident.

In the days that followed there were innuendos and charges made by those who thrive on judging public figures to whom some misfortune has fallen, yet, in many instances their right to judge is impugned by their own actions.

We wonder what would happen if as individuals, one of us were to face such a traumatic experience. What would our actions be?

Does the accident, tragic as it was, impair his ability to serve his state and nation in the U. S. Senate?

Tragedy is something which never leaves the mind and is a matter, when personally involved, which constantly dwells inside.

In this particular case, one might see in it a message for Sen. Kennedy.

He commented that in the hours following the accident many thoughts ran through his mind, one being, did an awful curse hang over the Kennedy family.

Having lost three brothers, one in the Armed Forces, two by assassination, in the service of their country, it was a rightful question to ask.

We dwell not on any qualifications Kennedy may have for presidential aspirations, or the effect of the accident on that ambition.

The Kennedy family has a commitment to public service.

The final decision will be made by him, but public expression may assist him in the lonely hours in which that decision must be made.

May we have your comments?

Bus Service

Bus service for Boston commuters, is currently being imperiled by a delay in affixing the signature of Mayor Kevin White of Boston who must approve permission for Trombly Bus Service to Park Square.

The legislature and the Department of Public Utilities has given permission to the Andover carrier to transport patrons from Andover and Greater Lawrence to the Park Square terminal, rather than making the terminus, Sullivan Square.

It is of prime importance that Trombly be allowed to proceed into Boston to the Park Square terminal. It is only through this route that continued bus service, not only to Boston, but to Greater Lawrence points can be maintained.

Frank Trombly has taken on the awesome task of providing public transportation as a private enterprise, rather than saddling the taxpayer for the cost of public transportation which would have resulted if the communities were subjected to service by the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority.

With approval given by the legislature and state authority, as well as the Boston City Council, we fail to see the delay in affixing the signature by Mayor White.

It is no secret that Mayor White has an eye on the Governor's chair in the state house. This area is a prime section for voter consideration on such matters.

We would think that with the myriad of problems facing the Boston mayor, he would be more than happy to get this minor matter out of the way.

We urge his quick approval, in order that the Trombly firm can provide the service to local commuters that he is so desirous of performing.

the surtax at the federal level.

The tax picture is not bright.

Andover, its officials and taxpayers, must hitch another knot in their economic belt and take a long, hard look at impending costs. The time has come to exercise economies in all areas of government.

To the finance committee falls the burden of scrutinizing all municipal spending, not in a nousey, intruding way, but in a manner which will provide the town with full value for every tax dollar spent.

While the jump was substantial this year, Andover residents can take some heart in examining a few figures, and pat themselves on the back for some wise judgment.

Leaping to the forefront as the town's top taxpayer was the Gillette Co., in the Lowell Junction Industrial Park. A year ago, the firm was not even listed on the tax roll. The town financed utility lines and roadways for the new plant, a move which certainly will pay dividends in years to come.

Gillette bumped Raytheon out of the top spot, but the assessors feel the electronics firm will be back in first place once its new complex is completed off Lowell street. Here again, town meeting approved capital improvements to retain the company in Andover.

Other industries are locating here, and there is forecast of additional firms interested in Andover, some large, some small.

There are those who would keep Andover a residential community, but it is obvious that industry is needed if tax relief is to be forthcoming.

Effective planning, economical thinking, and cautious approach to major projects, we think, will maintain a perfectly balanced tax triangle involving residential, commercial and industrial properties.

The town has adopted an animal control law, designed primarily for the control of dogs in the community. It is a sort of liberal dog leash law.

With the attention now focused on the canines, the selectmen this week approved honoring a dog's arch enemy in most cases, by proclaiming the week of Nov. 2-8, Cat Week, International, 1969, at the request of the American Feline Society, Inc., N.Y.

Only thing lacking in the approval was a unanimous meow for the felines. Sure isn't a dog's life in Andover.

The first half of the vacation season is over at the beaches and the concluding period is underway. For many persons, renting of resort cottages extend over five week periods and the second half of the season began on a rather dismal note this week.

We noted one family, with three pre-school children leaving for the beach Saturday morning intent on relaxing on the sand and in the salt water. The high surf kept people out of the water and off the beach on the weekend at nearby beaches and we noticed the particular family home early Sunday to pick up a portable television set to spent the "relaxing" hours.

Scanning through some memorabilia the other day, we came across an item of particular interest, particularly in view of the recent journey to the moon by three astronauts which consumed eight days duration.

The item was an air mail letter sent from the Lawrence airport to Boston and return as part of the observance of National Air Mail week in May of 1938. A cachet was sponsored by the Lawrence Philatelic Society.

The air mail letter was sent from Lawrence and returned. The delivered note read, "this letter has been all the way to Boston and back."

The hurricane season is upon us. The first tropical storm of the season was spawned Monday and began its northward trek.

Hurricane Anna was moving slowly northward with no particular pattern as yet and no threat to the mainland. We heard an explanation once, but it escapes us at the moment as to why hurricanes are assigned female names. Maybe it's because of Mother Nature's wrath which can raise havoc once a tropical storm hits.

Cut Glass Collection Display

An exhibit of rare, cut glass is on view at the Memorial Hall Library from now through the month of August. The collection is the property of Mrs. Fay Elliott and includes vases, compotes, wine glasses, cologne bottles, and fruit dishes, some of colorful glass. Mrs. Elliott is a well-known local collector who makes her home at 84 Summer St. She has frequently lectured in the Merrimack Valley area on the subject of cut glass. Each item in the library display has a descriptive notation and Mrs. Elliott has written a brief outline of the history of glass, as well.

Significant books, of, for, and by the "New Left" are a new feature at the library this month. The collection of books are grouped under headings which indicate those areas which have strongly influenced our modern-day students and "activists." These areas are "Vietnam Dis-sent," "Religious Influences," (particularly far-eastern reli-gions), "The Individual and His Conscience," "Marxism and Rus-sia's Influence," "The Liberation Movement," "Black Power," and "Student Unrest." Classical background books include such well-known publications as Thoreau's "Civil Disobedience," C. Wright Mills' "The Power Elite," and the revised edition (1968) of Edgar Snow's "Red Star Over China." Among the more recent writers represented are Nat Hentoff, Paul Goodman, David Schoenbrun, Eldridge Cleaver and Alan Watts. The collection will remain on ex-hibition through August and you may reserve any of the books for September circulation.

By way of expressing congrat-ulations to the successful as-tronauts who made it to the moon and back, both the Children's Room and the adult library of Memorial Hall Library have displays which feature books on space and inter-planetary flight. All these books can be taken out at any time.

In the outdoor display case the library presents new books of interest to New Englanders, books which may inspire local residents to take day trips during the month of August to some of our regional places of interest. The list of books include: "Anthology of the New England Poets," edited by Untermeyer "The Bay and the Sound," by J. Perkinson Jr.; "Changing Landscape," by Coats-worth; "New England Frontier: Puritans and Indians, 1620-1675"; "New England Gallery," by R. K. Appel. There are also books about famous New Englanders displayed: "Ralph Waldo Emerson, A Pro-file," by C. Bode; "Recognition of H. D. Thoreau," edited by W. Glick; "Senator from Maine," by A. Fleming, and "We Alcotts," by A. Fisher and O. Robe. These books may be reserved at the Circulation Desk.

Perseverance

The Massachusetts Audubon Society reports a mystery solved - the case of the unwanted twigs.

A Middleboro lady keeps her clothespin bag hung outside, and one spring day, went out to hang her wash. She found the bag full of clothespins - and also twigs. She tossed out the twigs, blaming playing children, and hung out the wash.

Next time - more twigs, same procedure. And the next time, too.

The most recent trip - and in the bag were three small eggs, laid in spite of the obstacles to nest building the bird had encountered.

NEW INDUSTRY. One of Andover's newest industries is rapidly nearing completion and should be ready for occupancy soon. This is the Brockway-Smith-Haigh-Lovell Co., plant off Dascomb road, bordering on Route 93. The firm manufactures and distributes door frames, window frames and other fabricated materials for homes and businesses. The new manufacturing and warehouse facility will replace the firm's present quarters in Charlestown. The building is screened slightly from the highway by trees. Entrance to the building is off Dascomb road near the location of another of Andover's more recent industrial complexes, Allied Chemical Co.

Indian Ridge Open Will Benefit Hospitals

More than 45 civic and charity minded individuals are hard at work making final plans for the First Annual Indian Ridge Hospital Open to be held August 12-17 at the Indian Ridge Country Club. The tournament is being held for the benefit of the Greater Boston and Merrimack Valley hospitals.

Contributing much of their free time, these people have been setting up the tournament schedule, admissions, caddie arrangements, clubhouse facilities, entries, financial matters, controlling the galleries, caring for grounds, arranging for police and security, setting up press facilities and numerous other chores which require hundreds of man-hours to prepare in order for the tourney to run smoothly.

School Expansions Discussed

School officials went over a progress report on school building expansion with William Black of the School Building Assistance Commission Tuesday.

Discussed between Supt. of Schools Edward I. Erickson and Mr. Black were educational specifications for the proposed addition to the Central school. This is the next elementary school expansion project.

Also discussed were additions to the West Junior High school and the senior high school.

The meeting was more of a progress report on what has been going on and being studied in anticipation of presenting the projects to the townspeople and town meeting in the near future.

GUIDANCE

Robert B. Perry of the Andover High School Guidance Department will be at the high school office during the weeks of Aug. 1 to 15 and Aug. 25 to 29 to schedule new students entering Andover High School this fall.
